OTTAWA — The crunch will come in the Commons at the end of this month when the official opposition will seek to force the Liberal minority government to resume debate on the government's flag resolu tion using the club of withholding interim supply from the administration.
This 26th Parliament is heading once again into a crisis situation with the elements that will contribute to that critical situation now accumulating.

The minority government nust go to Parliament at the nd of October and seek passage of an interim supply motion so that it can obtain the necessary funds to carry on the day-to-day administration of the country broughout November. Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker can hold the threat of refusing to grant that supply er the head of the government and his group can prolong dehate on the supply motion be-yond the deadline date on which government cheques are eduled to go out.

WINTER ELECTION?

Already in the Commons, Mr. Diefenbaker has broadly hinted that the official opposition might follow just such a course of action. Once again it will be a case of the official opposition and the minority governm engaged in political brinkman-ship that might end in an unvanted winter election.

Basic ingredients that are building into a crisis are: • The flag issue and the nons committee producing what is expected to be a simple majority report proposing a dis-tinctive flag design. • Redistribution is again be fore the House, but indications are that when the chips are down the official opposition will insist the government proceed with its original provisions for appointment of two members of the provincial commissions by the prime minister and op-position leader. The NDP is flat opposed to such procedure.

Numerous departmental estimates remain to be passed Prime Minister L. B. Pearson has assured the House a resolution preceding the Canada pension plan will be introduced

• The federal - provincial formula for repatriation of the constitution is coming under fire in the Commons.

The interim supply motion must be introduced at the end of this month and passed early in November if the government is to have the funds carry on its business.

The government will face an awkward situation when the committee makes its report to the Commons on a propo flag on Oct. 29 or 30. That will be about the same time that the interim supply motion

SCRAP CONSTITUTION; INSPIRES BOREDOM

TORONTO (CP)—Leon Balcer, deputy leader of the Conservative party, said today Canada should adopt a completely new constitution that ensures the equality and partnership of French and English Canadians.

The former federal transport minister said Canada should scrap the document that forms the basis of the present con-stitution—the British North America Act of 1867—because it inspires only "boredom and embarrassment."

Sen. Frank E. Moss (Dem. Utah), chairman of the special subcommittee, said he already had asked U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk to urge Canada to join in further study of the huge project.

The proposal to carry water from Alaskan and northers are Columbia to Lake Superior was advanced by the Ralph M. Parsons Co., Los Angeles. The special subcommittee was created to determine whether the proposal merits a full-scale feasibility study by the government.

The Parsons plan was expected to provide 4.3 billion acrefeet of water storage and about 100 million kilowatts of power at a cost of $90 billion.

Divert Water From North

The plan, called the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA), envisions a system to divert water from Alaska and Canada through a system of tunnels, reservoirs and lifts.

A British archbishop charged today that the ecumenical council would make itself "a laughing-stock in the eyes of the world" if it attempts to rush breath-

Certainly this province needs more institutions if only to provide treatment differing from that which can be given at Brannen Lake, But no one who has given any study to the matter believes that the addition of such physical facilities-or that any other single measure-will solve the problems arising from bad behavior on the part of young people. In the Greater Victoria community fewer than five of every 100 children under the age of 18 become juvenile delinquents insofar as that definition depends upon conviction in family and children's court.

Many more may escape that classification because they are either not caught or not convicted, but they still form a small minority of our young people.

Cutting down their numbers will be a costly undertaking, though not necessarily as costly as failing to act. And the chief weapon against the increase of such children is a satisfactory home environment. The authorities can do part of the job home to see that it becomes a

That should be an immense in this closely divided Parliament. consolation to the American government. For it will have reason to be grateful to British experience and wisdom in making the best response to the new developments in Russia and China.

The immediate problem for Mr. Wilson is the economic crisis facing the nation, It is a curious problem, for the ordinary Englishman has never been so prosperous. But the country is in trouble.

The rate of British economic growth is about half the figure for western Europe. The terms of trade have turned sharply against Britain in recent months. The pound sterling is not yet shaky but it needs to be strengthened. During the election campaign Mr. Maudling, the Conservative chancellor of the exchequer, admitted that Mr. Wilson was right in predicting that Britain would soon face the most serious problems. He claimed however that a Conservative government would be better equipped than a Labor government in grappling with this crisis.

It is against this bleak background that Wilson begins his formidable task. The most obvious measure, but an extremely unpopular one, would be a temporary system of import controls to improve Britain's balance of payments. But any such restraints on imports would expose the Labor Party to the charge that

It is probable therefore that Mr. Wilson will shrink from these heroic remedies. His first concern will undoubtfully be to prevent a run on the pound. He can most easily achieve that result by showing that he is master of Parliament, Political stability is the first essential. With that achieved, Mr. Wilson can then turn to the task of quickening the British economy. He will be helped in this task by the urgency of the nation's problems. country's profound sense of unity will assert itself and will sustain Mr. Wilson provided he does not rely on socialist solutions that will inevitably divide the British people.

The real hero of the election is not Mr. Wilson but Sir Alec Douglas-Home. He saved a dispirited and demoralized Conservative Party from humiliating defeat. Mr. Wilson tried hard to represent Sir Alec as a figure of flaccid futility. Quite plainly the British electorate was not very impressed by this criticism. A Reviving Admiration for Richard Nixon

AFTER a disastrous spring and sum- name and face are still golden to the mer, Richard M. Nixon is coming into his own again with an old-fashioned, 36-state political tour that is giving his party a badly needed shot of adrenalin.

"He talks our language," a Michigan Republican said admiringly when Nixon and his tiny troupe arrived here last week to barnstorm the state, The twin-prop F-27, which the Republican National Committee chartered for the former Vice-President, would fit into the baggage compartment of the super-planes at his disposal in 1952, 1954, 1956, 1958 and 1960 as the Republican Party's ber one campaign worker.

But if Nixon feels sorry for himself, he doesn't show it. In fact, he's steaming around the country this fall with a chesty exuberance not always apparent in other Nixon has nothing personal at He's not running for governor of California, Vice-President, President or Nixon speaks in old and understandable Nelson Rockefeller and We even senator from New York. At a $50-a-plate luncheon here that raised $35,000 ("that's our state kitty for the rest of the campaign," said National Committeeman John Martin), Nixon laid into Lyndon B. Johnson with gusto.

"Ever since Henry Ford came out for Johnson," he said, "they've been calling him Thunderbird in the White House, And down in Texas, they're talking about Hubert Humphrey as Mocking-Bird. What we've got, my friends, is government of the birds, by the birds and for the birds." Nixon's appeal for Republican voters today is quite simple: he is a link with the Republican traditions of the past, while Sen. Barry Goldwater is a sharp and uncomfortable break with that past.

appeasement and retreat" and praising the Republicans for having "kept the peace without surrender."

Republican voters haven't been hearing anything so specific from Sen. Goldwater. When they hear it from Nixon they lap it up. He invokes the past out of the uncomfortable present and it is just possible that this five-week tour of his may rehabilitate him for a useful future in his Republican Party.

Consider the state of the party if the Goldwater-Miller ticket loses by anything like the pollsters' forecasts. The moderate wing of the party, victimized last spring and summer by dissension (which Nixon himself abetted), has no natural leader. Here in Michigan, for example, Gov. George Romney may win the election or Nov. 3, but Romney is no natural rallying Lone-wolf Romney infuriated Easterners Nelson Rockefeller and William Scranton at San Francisco by insisting on his own tion, thus dividing Why not?

Wasteful Transport

The problem of urban transport becomes more difficult with each passing day, all over the world. It is interesting to note that Mr. Frank Lemass, general manager of the Irish Road and Rail Authority, Cras Iompair Eirann (CIE), boldly suggests that private car owners and the trucking industry should pay for unecon-omic public transport services. A daring ively, idea but a good one.

In his presidential address to the In- 965 Trans-Canada Highway. stitute of Transport in London, Mr. Lemass said that as private road transport in-creases it becomes more difficult to provide public transport on a profitable basis. We all agree on that. He went on to say the motor car is a selfish means of trans port which causes urban congestion and brings about a deterioration in public services. According to Mr. Lemass, it could be made to pay for the utility element inherent in urban transport by higher fuel and road taxes.

Mr. Lemass could have added we have man or woman sitting in a car weighing well over a ton being conveyed to work, thus hogging the road, gas, rubber, oil and car parking space to his own private

Mr. Lemass declared the private car seemed to satisfy a powerful but latent desire in man. But a price has to be paid for its satisfaction, for when millions of human beings were employing themselves as drivers there were bound to be a large number who were psycholog-

Said Mr. Lemass, essential public transport services should be provided even at a loss, the real question was how they should be paid for-by subsidization by local authority, by the state.

The general transport problem is basithe identification of social needs, Mr. Lemass said, it is in the last resort a political problem. It rests with the national state transport policy makers to investigate and state the degrees of com-promise which are possible alternatives to the degeneration of transport.

With reference to the recent letter by Mr. Beeching, executive director of the B.C. SPCA, I wish to state that I agree in principle with all his comments con-

The fact remains, however, that the society was extremely tardy and undecided about the unfortunate matter and any action it may have taken, was in effect, forced upon it by public opinion. At a small but interesting ceremony, near the seagull fountain behind the Parliament Buildings, last Saturday afternoon, a bronze plaque was unveiled.

It's well designed and clearly embossed with a legend that gives anyone who passes that way, a slice of Pacific Northwest history in capsule form.

Men and women who planned and arranged the ceremony are members of the recognition of pioneers group on the provincial 1967 centennial planning committee.

Col. R. C. Moody, commander of the Royal Engineers on the lower mainland in the 1850s, looks out from another part of the building. He planned the Cariboo Road and selected New Westminster as capital of the early colony.

Close by is David Thompson, fur trader and explorer in the Kootenay country in 1812. He descended the Columbia River from its source to its mouth.

Other explorers include Simon Fraser who navigated the mighty river bearing his name in 1808 and established the first trading posts, and Alexander Mackenzie, first white man to travel across country to the Pacific Coast.

Sir James Douglas, founder of Fort Victoria in 1843, proudly gazes out from a niche facing toward the Olympic mountains. Two over at his left, is his son in-law, Dr. John Sebastian Helmcken, pioneer surgeon who we had an NDP government today it would presumably ask the Labor government in London to have the British Parliament amend the BNA Act in such ways as to permit the NDP to carry out its socialistic plans.

But if the BNA Act is amended in the way that Prime Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers propose, there would be no going to a sympathetic Labor government in London. The NDP government could have Par-liament here pass amending legislation—but it would then have to be ratified by every one of the 10 provinces before it would be effective.

As Mr. Brewin cried in ill-concealed anguish, "the formula in effect hands an absolute veto to every individual province." That means that a single province, even tiny Prince Edward Island with its 107,000 population, could veto socialism for all of Canada.

Maybe the non-socialist prime minister and premiers realized this. Maybe they chuckled as they turned this instrument of Canadian nationalism, this "repatriation" of the Constitution, into a weapon against socialism

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Rudy Pilous, the prime minister of the Victoria Maple Leafs, was introduced to Victoria Kiwanians this week as "a colorful, able, fiery coach." Kiwanians on the whole are keen, devoted, energetic. But whoever wrote "fiery" into that introduction is full of schnappes.

Mr. Pilous, generally, is as fiery as wet toilet tissue. He has never kicked an old lady, much less a hockey player,

His grammar would not necessarily be endorsed by Webster but his conversation does not have the rich tones of a long-shoremen's disagreement. He has eyebrows like John L. Lewis and the wit of Mort Sahl, freshly laundered. He is a hipster in country boy's clothing.

He likes to describe the coaching profession as "this dodge." A terrible defeat by his gladiators comes out, "We were stoned."

The introduction of Pilous made generous reference to his career as player, coach, owner in such watering holes St. Catharines, Buffalo, Chicago and Denver.

No mention was made of the bonus Pilous received for lifting the Black Hawks out of the dank National Hockey League cellar into the dazz ling glow of the Stanley Cup Bonus? He was stoned. Fired.

RUDY PILOUS

Not all Kiwanians have a burning desire to become professional hockey coaches. But as Pilous knows there burns in the breast of everyone, plumber to wine-tester, the conviction that HE could do the job better. All you need is c

Three Books, Three Days and 75 Cents

"Coaching is easy," Pilous was saying. "No problem to get into the dodge. Go to a book store. For 25 cents you get a copy of 'Hockey Simplified.' About 30 pages. You read it, go book and for another quarter you pick up 'Advanced Hockey.' "Doing fine but want more? Get one more book, 'Strategy of Hockey,' Also two-bits. If you are unfortunate enough to win the Stanley Cup you ean always go back to fixing plugged tollets or the foundry.

Very few escape the pitfalls of success. One who does is George Imlach, chairman of the board of Toronto Maple Leafs. Mr. Imlach had the foresight when offered the coaching cloak to ask for something else. The general manager's chair.

Balancing both portfolios, Mr. Imlach is completely safe,

Grand Tour Courtesy of Chapman For Victoria Kiwanians, premier Pilous had a story to Illustrate that in coaching as in introductions, you don't have to believe everything you hear.

"I was working for the late Art Chapman at Buffalo and we had been busy. Coaching, scouting, arranging player visas. So Chappie gives me $200 and says, "Take a holiday."
"Even in those days $200 doesn't get you around the world. So I went up to an asylum in Detroit to see friends."

"I'm walking up the path and I see this fellow painting the grass yellow. I'm friendly and he looks friendly. So I say, 'Hi! Neighbor.' He says 'Hi! Neighbor' right back.

"He tells me that all his relatives think he's nuts but he's really not. 'They just want to get my $100,000,' he says. 'You got $100,000?' I ask.

For $100,000, Rudy Gave It a Try

"Sure," he says. 'And I like you. So I'm going to share it with you. See that path? You go up there to the hollow tree. Walk 10 paces left and start digging. "What the heck, I think. $100,000. So I get a shovel, walk

"On my way out, I pass this guy. He's busy but he looks up. 'Find it?' he asks.

"' 'Did you walk up the path?'

"Did you find the tree-'

"Yes. "Did you go 10 paces left and dig with the shovel?"

"Then this guy goes back to painting the grass yellow, smiles and looks up. 'Get a brush, brother,' he says, Get a

Experience the Difference As Rogers Loses In Final

TOKYO (CP)-Doug Rogers, a towering young Canadian who studied judo in Japan, today captured the silver medal in the heavyweight class at the Olympic Rogers lost out in the final of the one-day competition to Oarsmen George Hungerford of Isao Inokuma of Japan. But there wasn't a takedown in the 15-minute match.

Inokuma got the decision largely on his slight superiority in the first eight or nine minutes. A much more experienced athlete than Rogers, he always seemed to be perfectly poised whereas the Canadian sometimes looked wary and was nearly dropped once or twice. In the last few minutes they battled on even terms before 15,000 spectators.

Jairs for the only Canadian gold medal, Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., took the silver medal in the 800 metres and in the 800 metres and in the 100.

This is Canadia's second best performance at the Olympics, toopped only by the two golds, one silver and three bronzes she won at Melbourne in 1956.

Army Seeking Batting Champ

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) - American League batting champion Tony Oliva may be lost to the Minnesota Twins for the next two years, a source close to the club revealed Wednesday.

He also led the league in times at bat (672), runs scored (109) hits (217), total bases (374) HANDICAPPER and doubles (43).

The source said the Twins PROVES SKILL were conferring with selective service officials regarding Oliva's pending army service. Oliva came to the Twins years in the minor

PHASE TWO OF THE RAMBLER REVOLUTION:

the luxurious new, longer, larger 1965 Ambassador-designed to bring Rambler quality to the larger-car buyer

A few years ago, North American cars were over-large, gas hungry, gimmicked-up in design. What was worse, they were downright uneconomical.

Then we introduced the first compact car. It was a revolution against excessive size, weight, gimmicks, chrome. In a very short time, we became compact leaders. Every North American car maker followed

Now it's time for Phase Two of the Rambler Revolution, It's time to offer proven Rambler quality and exclusive Rambler features to the larger-car buyer. It's time to introduce our luxurious new 1965 Ambassador-completely new in size with a longer wheelbase, completely new in appearance and performance.

The 1965 Ambassador offers powerpower that's useable. Take your choice of three great engines. First, there's Torque Command, the revolutionary new six cylinder engine that performs like an eight. Its 155 h.p. provides a superb balance of power and efficiency. The new 7-Main Bearing crankshaft with eight counterweights gives you an unbelievably smooth, vibrationless ride. Or choose the Ambassador 270 h.p. V8. It offers one of the industry's best power-to-weight ratios for consistently superior performance on street and highway. You'll never be able to use more horsepower on any North American road. That's something to think about, particularly if you're in the habit of leading a hundred unused horses to drink at the gas pump. Or pick a 198 h.p. V8 for fast-moving performance.

The 1965 Ambassador offers luxury. Spacious interiors feature handsome appointments and fittings. You can choose from the industry's widest range of comfort and seating options, all with 7-position reclining seats and improved adjustable headrests. There's a wide, wide new selection of power options and features-everything you've ever wanted, from automatic transmissions and full power equipment to disc brakes and AM/FM radio. There are more than 70 power options and extras to choose from.

The 1965 Ambassador offers good design -useable design. Not one inch of space is wasted. There's no useless overhang, no excessive sheet metal solely for the sake of "glamourous" appearance. A larger car, yes, but a distinct pleasure to drive and handle, a delight to park.

The 1965 Ambassador offers exclusive quality features and construction. For instance: the strength and security of rattle-free Single Unit Construction with Uniside; Deep-Dip Rustproofing; Double Safety Brakes; Ceramic-Armoured Muffler; noise-hushing fibreglass roofliners.

Union Raises Funeral Fees For Member

A local union has raised $200 to defray funeral expenses of one of its members.

Local 513 of the Beverage Dispensers Union decided to raise the money itself when it found funeral benefits were not available to John Brandon.

He died last June and had been a full-time union member for eight months. But to get the $200 union death benefit, a year's membership is necessary.

Business agent Jan Hennekam asked the international to waive the rules because Brandon had been a part-time union membe for a number of years.

NO EXCEPTIONS

The international's executive replied that it could not change The local then agreed to as-sess each member $1 for two months to get the money.

"It won't cover the funeral expenses, but it will certainly help towards it," Mrs. Helen Brandon. 515 Normandy, said today. 'It's very, very nice of them to raise this money."

Japan Search For Soldiers Abandoned

TOKYO (Reuters)—The Ja-panese government today aban-doned a search for "Japanese soldiers" reported to be in hid-ing in the jungles of Guam Is-

A welfare ministry spokesman said the search party, after its final calls over a loud-speaker system produced no response, broke camp today and withdrew to Agana, capital of the island.

*The search party, including Bunzo Minakawa, who himself spent 16 years in hiding in the jungles after the end of the Second World War, was to return here Oct. 24.

The spokesman said there was no evidence to support reports two months ago that two "wild men," believed to be Japanese stragglers, were sighted on the

Schooling at Age 3 Predicted for 1970

TORONTO (UPI)-According to a Toronto high school principal, children will begin their schooling at the age of three by 1970.

William McLaughlin, principal of Castle Frank High School, said Tuesday that the youngsters would be taught with electronic aids in vastly changed schools.

He was addressing a group of delegates attending the Ontario Public School Trustees Association convention meeting here. McLaughlin said new schools would be windowless, doorless and air conditioned and equipped with movable inside walls to adjust to classroom sizes.

He said new teaching ideas are now being implemented within 10 years whereas it took 30 or 40 years in the past. The principal predicted that education would come to be accepted by the public as the mainstay of a nation's culture, economy and government.

City Hall—The Changing Face of Time

Symbolic illustration of the mood behind redevelopment of City Hall is contained in the photo above which shows the new superimposed on the old to present a different and exciting appearance. It shows Broad Street as seen through the intricate pattern of the anodized gold screen shielding windows in the City Hall's new wing. This series of photos shows how this theme was applied in other parts of the City Hall which will be re-occupied Friday. Photo No. 2 shows the new main entrance to City Hall which serves as a link between the new and old wings as well. Shrubbery outside, a coat of arms over the door and ivy and a fig tree planted against the inside brick wall will be added to this scene as final touches. Photo No. 3 shows some of the modern equipment in the completely new drafting room which provides plenty of light and space. Compared with the cramped and dingy quarters the team of draftsmen had to endure before, this change probably represents the most marked improvement. Photo No. 4 shows the still unfinished council chamber as seen from the mayor's dais. The huge wood, folding door separating the chamber from the ante-room will be opened for large receptions. Photo No. 5 shows what most taxpayers will see when they come to pay water bills and taxes or argue about the assessments on their properties. (Halkett Photos.)

capita grants for the 1967 national centennial is a "useful reminder that we must get a move on with the planning," commented Mayor R. B. Wilson Wednesday.

"We have had a (Greater Victoria) committee appointed for some time to consider possible projects but I don't think there has been as much progress so far as we had hoped to have by this time."

The intermunicipal committee was established earlier this year when the four Greater Victoria municipal councils agreed possibility of a joint permanent centennial project should be explored first.

The provincial grants announced this week, which will total about $60,000 for the Greater Victoria area over the next three years, are intended primarily to help with organizing costs.

Subsequent provincial, federal and civic grants could raise close to $500,000 in the Greater Victoria area which could go towards a single project or separate municipal

These Will Save You Losing Beads ... Face!

By PENNY SAVER

Nothing is quite so embarrassing as the clasp of one's neck face breaking and pearls or beads spilling about one's feet. Penny has had this shattering experience many a time and she remembers with red-faced vividness how awkward it is to go jewelry. If you feel that the clasp of a necklace doesn't suit the style, then what I've found will clear up any unhappiness about faulty or unsuitable clasps.

To solve problems such as these, store I was in has a fancy eatch which is easy to put on, and highlights any necklace. Beads which clasp at the side are in vogue this year and these give an added zip to an ordinarily plain set of beads. There are separate catches for costume jewelry and for more expensive cultured pearls or gems. Mix and match them, too.

Another item which is becoming the rage in fashion circles is a dull, black enamel pin, edged in gold. These look especially nice on stylish winter-white dresses or suits. Plain winter-white hats gain a more luxurious look from a pin placed to give an Catches are priced at $4.

Are you looking for a dignified 2 bedroom home on a lovely big lot deferred acceptance of the control of the co and the other networks are so worried they may soon start to juggle their program lineups. The latest Nellsen ratings show that the network many considered out of the running has swept all top 10 posi-tions for the week ending Oct, 4. Bonanza, the pater which used to play one two with Beverly Hillhillies on top of the listings, has slipped to

The top 10, in order, are ABC-TV's Bewitched, The Fugitive, Addams Family, My Three Sons, Peyton Place, Valentine's Day, Patty Duke, Bing Crosby, Ben Casey and McHale's Navy. A coup? You bet!

Because of these ratings television may undergo the most dramatic facelift in all its years, according

The magazine, the bible of showbusiness, reports the nervous season for sponsors has set in earlier than past years and present schedules will become obsolete, Lagging shows are looking around for time spots where the living is easier.

Movie nights, like NBC's Wednesday and Saturday vintage pictures and ABC's Sunday night feature films, led their periods very comfortably. This latter period is where Benanza met its come-uppance.

Some of the talk has movement of at least three or four shows, either to save a night for a network or escape the competition from other channels.

Rumor has doey Bishop being moved away from the AEC Sunday movie and Bonanza time slot which may be filled by Gilligan's Island which CBS figures will stand a better chance.

Gilligan's success is highly doubtful in this period since it's a dog of a show. Bishop deserves the move because of show quality. CBS-TV also has a stake in the comedian, having him committed for this year's half-hour comedy and next season as emcee of an hour music-variety show.

The network, which used to be on top, is also said to be trying to find a new spot for The Reporter and Mr. Broadway. Some of its other shows are also very disappointing on the basis of the first couple of ratings.

NBC has some moves planned, too, but ABC is very satisfied with the way things are going. Can you blame it?

DELICACIES IN PACIFIC UNTOUCHED'

VANCOUVER (UPI) - A leading marine biologist says the North Pacific is abounding with octupus, squid and sea cucumbers which are considered delicacies in many parts of the world, and with expanding world population may soon find a ready sale.

Dr. P. A. Larkin, director of the Pacific Biological Staof the Pacific Biological Sta-tion at Nanaimo, said Wed-nesday the groundfish re-sources in B.C. offshore waters have scarcely been touched, while there are many other edible fish which are not harvested because there is no local market.

The number of black cod in the Gulf of Alaska is fabulous, said Dr. Larkin, and fishermen haven't begun to scratch the potential of such species as ocean perch and flounder.

Water, Sewers Merger Studied

NORTH COWICHAN (CP) - Reeve Donald Morton won unanimous approval of North Cowichan council Wednesday for a motion proposing joint water and sewers boards for the City of Duncan and the south end of North Cowichan.

The reeve said the district municipality already co-operates with Duncan in such fields as garbage disposal, civil defence, parks, health and library services.

He said some residents of the south end of North Cowichan already are asking for water and other services from Duncan. "This is bound to come sooner or later, and the sooner we can start the wheels turning the sooner the wagon will get there."

Council appointed a committee to initiate talks with Duncan council and Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

up to promises made to him. Cabinetmaker Karl Shutz said that when he startted building the factory, slated to open in December, he was advised water connections would cost between $30 and $60, yet when he applied for the water the price had gone up to $400.

He also complained that the municipality has done little work on a road it had promised giving the factory access to the Trans-Canada Highway.

The council committee was appointed Wednesday at the suggestion of Reeve Donald Morton, who told council: "We have nothing to hide."

Critical Times

By VICTOR MACKIE Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA - The crunch will come in the Commons at the end of this month when the official oppositionwill seek to force the Liberal minority government to resume debate on the government's flag resolution using the club of withholding interim supply from the administration.
This 26th Parliament is head fing once again into a crisis situation with the elements that will contribute to that critical situation now accumulating.

The minority government must go to Parliament at the end of October and seek passage of an interim supply motion so that it can obtain the necessary funds to carry on the day-to-day administration of the country throughout November Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker can hold the threat of refusing to grant that supply over the head of the government and his group can prolong de bate on the supply motion bethe government cheques are scheduled to go out.

WINTER ELECTION?

Already in the Commons, Mr Diefenbaker has broadly hinted that the official opposition might follow just such a course of action. Once again it will be case of the official opposition and the minority governme engaged in political brinkman ship that might end in an un wanted winter election.

Basic ingredients that are building into a crisis are: • The flag issue and the Commons committee producing

what is expected to be a simple majority report proposing a dis-tinctive flag design. • Redistribution is again be fore the House, but indications are that when the chips are down the official opposition will insist the government proceed with its original provisions for appointment of two members of the provincial commissions by the prime minister and op-position leader. The NDP is flat opposed to such procedure.

Numerous departmental estimates remain to be passed by parliament.

Prime Minister L. B. Pearson has assured the House a resolution preceding the Canada pension plan will be introduced

The federal provincial formula for repatriation of the nstitution is coming under fire in the Commons. • The interim supply motion must be introduced at the end of this month and early in November if the gov ernment is to have the funds to carry on its business. The government will face an awkward situation when the committee makes its report to the Commons on a proposed flag on Oct. 29 or 30. That will be about the same time that the interim supply motion is introduced.

The official opposition has ROCKET of Greater Victoria port of the Commons flag committee unless it is a report supported by a substantial majority of the committee. Mr. Diefenbaker has suggesed 80 to 90 per cent. That would mean 12 to 13 members. hinted that it will expect the United Appeal is still soaring

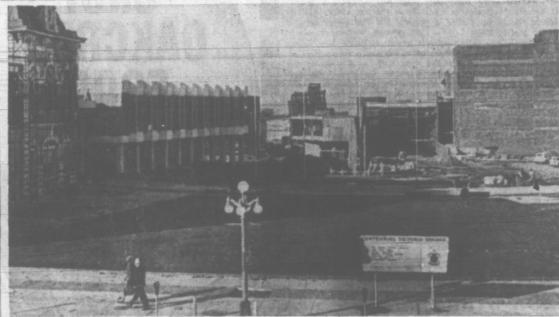

Current indications are this canvas for funds will continue until Oct. 31:

Bold Water Plan for N.A. Envisions Canada Backing

WASHINGTON (UPI)-A U.S. Senate report indicated a hard look will be taken at a bold prop for an $80 billion project to carry water from the Yukon River in Alaska as far south as Mexico.

The report, released by the special U.S. subcommittee on Western water development, said the $80 billion plan might provide twice as much water for the arid west as a $60 billion program carried out on a project-by-project basis.

Sen. Frank E. Moss (Dem.-Utah), chairman of the special subcommittee, said he already had asked U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk to urge Canada to join in further study of the huge project.

The proposal to carry water from Alaskan and northern Canadian rivers to Mexico and to dig a canal from British Columbia to Lake Superior was advanced by the Ralph M. Parsons Co., Los Angeles. The special subcommittee was reated to determine whether the proposal merits a full-scale feasibility study by the government.

Mess Blamed On Wrong Man

Candidate Adds New Twist To Saanich Fire Chief Dispute

A new twist was introduced into the seething Saanich fire chief dispute on Wednesday night.

Council candidate Ed Ball told a public meeting he thinks the wrong man has been blamed for the mess surrounding the appointment. Mr. Ball is a 24-year veteran with the city fire department. In answer to a question they wanted to have the results of the control of the con

Red Tanker Rescues City Sailor

A former Victorian and his partner in a Caribbean charter yacht business was rescued Tuesday from a reef by a Russian tanker.

Picked up after being marooned for more than 100 hours on Hog Sty Reef, off the Bahamas, were Fergus Walker, whose parents live at 138 St. Giles Street, and his American partner Smith, San Diego, Calif.

Their 45-foot ketch-rigged yacht, Poseidon, was reported by the Soviet news agency Tass to have collided with an unknown vessel and sank.

The pair took to the yacht's dinghy and found a tiny strip of dry land on the reef. CONDITION GOOD

The captain of the vessel Yelsk, which rescued them, said both received medical attention and both were reported in good condition. They will be put ashore in Cuba.

The Russian governmen newspaper Izvestia said the two men watched several ships appear and disappear on the horizon since their boat sank Friday.

Fergus Walker, now 43, came to Victoria in 1926 from Ireland, one of a family of five boys and two girls.

He received his schooling here and joined his father in a backyard boat-building busileads on to Portage Inlet.

SIX GENERATIONS

"Fergie is a sixth-generation boat-builder," his father, James Walker said today. All the Walker brothers have worked in their father's yard at one time or another. He built the yacht Poseidon here six years ago and used it for commercial fishing off the west coast of Vancouver Island for two years before entering the charter business. The ketch, which had a 13foot beam and an eight-foot draught, was rigged with a large mainsail and a small mizzen sail.

It was designed by local naval architect Frank Fredette. The yacht was named after a Greek god of the sea.

Mr. Walker sailed the Poseidon down the west coast to San Diego three and a half years ago where he met Stan-

Alaska to Mexico Diversion Scheme

WASHINGTON (UPI) -A U.S. Senate report indicated a hard look will be taken at a bold proposal for an $80 billion project to carry water from the Yukon River in Alaska as far south as Mexico.

The report, released by the special U.S. subcommittee on Western water development, said the $80 billion plan might provide twice as much water for the arid west as a $60 billion program carried out on a project-by-project basis.

Sen. Frank E. Moss (Dem.-Utah), chairman of the special subcommittee, said he already had asked U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk to urge Canada to join in further study of the huge project.

The proposal to carry water from Alaskan and northern Canadian rivers to Mexico and to dig a canal from British Columbia to Lake Superior was advanced by the Ralph M. Parsons Co., Los Angeles. The special subcommittee was created to determine whether the proposal merits a full-scale feasibility study by the government.

The committee's first report was on an inventory of both federal and non-federal water projects already in existence or proposed. Such projects, the report said, would store 2.8 billion acre-feet of water and produce 209 million kilowatts at a cost of about $60 billion.

The Parsons plan was expected to provide 4.3 billion acrefeet of water storage and about 100 million kilowatts of power at a cost of $90 billion.

The plan, called the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA), envisions a system to divert water from Alaska and Canada through a system of tunnels, reservoirs and lifts.

Intended to help meet a water crisis expected to reach "alarming proportions" by 1980, the plan would double water Continued on Page 2
